CHARLIE GRIMM

. . . The Tribal Pilot

Charlie Grimm with few exceptions has played an important role in senior circuit doings since he first broke in with the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1919. He was born in St. Louis on August 28, 1898 and as a youngster sold peanuts and scorecards at Sportsman's Park. Back in those days, the kid vendors were allowed to work out and shag flies in the morning and that is how Grimm got his first taste of major league ball as he tried out around first base with the St. Louis Browns.

On a trip into St. Louis Connie Mack saw Grimm performing at first, liked what he saw and signed the youngster to an Athletics' contract in 1916. Charlie played in a few games for the A's, then spent the next two years in the minors at the end of which time his contract was purchased by the Pittsburgh club. He remained at Forbes Field until he was traded to the Cubs at the conclusion of the 1924 campaign.

In 1925 he took over the first base job for the Chicago team, a position which he held down for over a decade. Charlie has a lifetime average of .290 and set a National League record when he led all N.L. first basemen in fielding on nine different occasions. Grimm played in two world series with the Cubs (1929 and 1932), fielded flawlessly and hit .389 and .333 respectively.

With the club in second place on August 4, 1932, Grimm replaced Rogers Hornsby as manager and went on to win the pennant. He held the Bruins' reins until mid-season of 1938 when he resigned, recommended Gabby Hartnett as his successor. Hartnett won the National League championship that year.

Charlie then turned his many talents to a different phase of the game and became a very successful baseball announcer. The game called him back again, however, and he was with the Cubs in a coaching capacity in 1941 and was released to take over the helm of the Milwaukee club in June of that year. When he took over from Bill Killefer the club was in last place and there it remained for that season, but the following year he piloted them to second place and in 1943 copped the American Association flag. He resigned as manager of the Brewers in May of 1944 and was named manager of the Cubs replacing Jimmy Wilson. The Chicago club climbed to fourth that year and under Grimm won the pennant in 1945.

He was replaced as Cubs manager by Frankie Frisch on June 10, 1949 and became Vice President in charge of personnel for the Chicago organization. On January 6, 1950 he resigned his job and accepted an offer from wealthy oilman Dick Burnett to manage Dallas of the Texas League. He signed a three year contract for a reported figure of $90,000. Following the 1950 season he quite his job at Dallas and shortly thereafter signed to manage Milwaukee which at this time was the Braves top farm club. Under his astute leadership the Milwaukee club spread-eagled the American Association field and won the pennant going away. His club stormed through the Shaughnessy Cup playoffs, went on to defeat Montreal for the Little World Series title.

When Jolly Cholly was named to be manager of the Braves his Milwaukee Brewers were in first place in the tight American Association scramble.

He is married and makes his home in Robertsville, Missouri, has a son serving with the Marine Corps, and a daughter who is married to a Naval Flight Surgeon. She has two sons, Charlie's only grandchildren.

THE COACHES

JOHN W. COONEY—Johnny is now starting his eighth season as a Tribal coach. This makes him the veteran member of the Braves in point of service. In addition to his coaching tenure, Johnny spent 15 years as a Braves player. He always was considered one of the outstanding defensive players during his playing career. He saw additional major league service with the Dodgers, Cardinals and Yankees. Cooney originally started out as a pitcher, but a bad arm sidelined him with the result that he became an outfielder. Highly regarded by baseball men, he makes his home in Sarasota, Florida. He is married and has a son, John.

WILLIAM H. WALTERS — After piloting the Milwaukee Brewers to the American Association pennant last season, Bucky Walters returns to the big leagues as the Braves pitching coach. Bucky had the opportunity to return to Milwaukee for the 1953 season but he preferred to rejoin the Braves as a coach. Originally a third baseman with the Braves, Bucky soon developed into one of the game's outstanding pitchers. He also saw action with the Red Sox, Phillies and Reds and was also manager of the latter club. He has been in two world series and five all-star games. During his career he won a total of 198 games on the mound. Bucky is a great man working with the youngsters and one of his prize pupils was Chet Nichols who topped the senior circuit with the lowest earned run mark in his first season in the loop. Married, Bucky makes his home in Glenside, Montgomery County, Pa.

ROBERT W. KEELY—Bob has been with the Braves since 1946 as a coach and bull-pen catcher. One of the hardest working men on the squad, he is always the first man on the field and the last to leave during the Tribal practice sessions. He commands tremendous respect from the players because of the all-out manner in which he pours himself into his work. He works hard with the youngsters, aiding them to acclimate themselves to major league activities. Bob also works out with and offers valuable advice to the many youngsters who try out with the Braves during the season.

1953 PROSPECTS

Although the 1952 season turned out to be a disappointing one for the Braves and their fans, the outlook for the 1953 campaign is considerably much brighter as the Tribe prepared for another season at the Bradenton training camp.

There are several reasons why Tribal officials are looking for a vast improvement over the 1952 performances of the Warriors. First of all, the Braves have that much needed down the middle strength, the lack of which has plagued them in past seasons; secondly, the club should receive help from three outstanding rookies up from the pennant-winning Milwaukee Brewers; thirdly, last year's rookies such as Jack Dittmer, Ed Mathews, Johnny Logan, Virgil Jester and Ernie Johnson figure to be vastly improved with a year's experience in the National League under their belts; fourthly, Del Crandall and Johnny Antonelli, the "Kid Battery" are expected to rejoin the Tribe after serving in the army the past two years; fifthly, in Warren Spahn, who again topped the circuit pitchers in strikeouts, the Braves have one of the outstanding hurlers in the game, and sixthly, a lad from Santa Barbara, California, named Ed Mathews, who is truly one of the outstanding young players to hit the big time in many a moon.

Another big reason why Tribal officials are looking forward to better things in 1953 is the acquisition from Brooklyn of hard hitting Andy Pafko. Normally an outfielder, Handy Andy also plays an excellent game at third base and he adds that much sought after right hand batting power to the Braves batting order. Pafko distinguished himself during the regular 1952 campaign and was one of the Brooklyn stars in the World Series. With Pafko in the line-up, the pressure will be off young Ed Mathews and these two combining with Sid Gordon, will give the Braves one of the outstanding fence-busting punches in the senior circuit.

Once they joined the Braves as a unit, Johnny Logan and Jack Dittmer proved to everyone that they were the doubleplay combination the club had been looking for. The two youngsters teamed up like bread and butter and performed brilliantly around the keystone sack. No longer will the inability to pull off the much-needed double-play haunt Charlie Grimm's forces. Behind the plate young Del Crandall, who proved himself to be a major leaguer before entering the service, will divide the honors with the veteran Walker Cooper.

Three rookies coming up from the Milwaukee farm club who figure prominently in future Braves plans are pitchers Don Liddle and Gene Conley, and outfielder Bill Bruton. Liddle and Conley were two of the top twirlers in the American Association last season. Bruton enjoyed a brilliant season at Milwaukee and many of the wiser minds in baseball have predicted great things to come from this youngster. Bruton is probably one of the fastest men in baseball today. A fine defensive outfielder, his speed and great throwing arm saved many games for the Brewers last season as he continually came up with outstanding plays in center field. Billy also did alright in the batting department, hitting .325 for the year. He topped the league in runs scored with 130 and in base hits with 211. In addition he stole 30 bases and batted in 62 tallies which is truly sensational for a lead off batter.

Liddle topped the league hurlers in percentage, winning 17 and losing 4 for a brilliant .810 mark. He also led the league in strikeouts with 159 and was closely followed in this department by the elongated Conley who whiffed 143 enemy batsmen. Liddle is a crafty, hardworking southpaw who possesses remarkable control. Conley won 11 and lost 4 last season and, according to Bucky Walters, pitched fine ball throughout the year.

Dittmer and Logan have already proved themselves afiel while the latter enjoyed a fine season at the plate, finishing up with a neat .283 mark. Although he got off to a slow start, Dittmer still batted in 42 tallies. He has proved himself at Denver and Atlanta as a good hitter and Manager Charlie Grimm is confident that he will get off to a flying start next season. Over the final month of the season both Virgil Jester and Ernie Johnson turned in fine performances and much is expected of them in 1953. Johnson was bothered by a sore arm for the better part of the season but he finally came into his own through the stretch and pitched the type of ball everyone knew he was capable of doing.

The expected return of Del Crandall and Johnny Antonelli will be a big lift to the Tribe. These two youngsters are potential big league greats. Antonelli of course is the bonus baby from Rochester, New York, who has all the makings of a big league pitching star. Johnny pitched for the Ft. Myer, Virginia, team this past summer and hurled them into the army championship. With the experience he already has plus the constant work he received while pitching for Ft. Myer, the brilliant young southpaw should come into his own in 1953.

Little has to be said about Warren Spahn, probably the top southpaw hurler in the league today. Last season was Spahn's first losing year in the big leagues. However, he pitched fine ball for the Braves as he again registered a low earned run average and retained his strikeout king title. With Spahn topping the list of veteran pitchers including Vern Bickford, Jim Wilson, Max Surkont and Lew Burdette combining with Jester and Johnson and rookies Conley and Liddle the Braves appear to be set in this mighty important department. The dark horse of the Tribal staff could turn out to be none other than Dave Cole, the big right hander who possesses a barrel of "stuff" according to his teammates and rival players. Dave saw action during the latter part of 1952 and, once he nails down his control, he could blossom into a top notch star.

Now we come to young Eddie Mathews. When Ed first came up to the Braves he was tabbed as a great hitting prospect with a big question mark on his defensive ability. However, it wasn't too long before he was being recognized as a good glove man. He possesses a terrific throwing arm and, for a lad his size, moves around with amazing speed. Ed started many around-the-horn double plays during the course of the season and left little to be desired as far as his play at the hot corner was concerned.

Although he batted .240, which in itself is truly remarkable for a youngster with as little professional experience as he had when he reported to Bradenton last Spring, Mathews more than lived up to his reputation as a long ball clouter. Some of the longest home runs of the season zoomed off his bat. Fans in Cincinnati and St. Louis will long remember several of his clouts as will the local fans who took the kid from the coast into their hearts. Ed wound up hitting 25 home runs which surpasses Ralph Kiner's post-war rookie record of 23 established in 1946. On the next to the last day of the season he walloped Brooklyn pitching for three round trippers, thus becoming the first rookie in the league to ever do so. He proved his ability to hit southpaw servings as he blasted seven of his 25 against portsiders. He hit at least one home run in every park in the league.

Yes, Ed Mathews did more than was expected of him in 1952. The future holds other great accomplishments for him as well as for the Boston Braves.

Dr. Charles K. Lacks, Trainer

VERN BICKFORD—Vern is regarded as one of the greatest competitors in the game. After spending several seasons in the minor leagues, Bick came up to the Braves in 1948. His top season was in 1949 when he won 19 games and hurled a no hit-no run game against Brooklyn. He has been plagued by injuries the past two seasons.

BOB BUHL — Recently discharged from Uncle Sam's Army, Bob returns to his old manager, Charlie Grimm. The two were together at Dallas in the Texas League in 1950, which was Bob's last season in professional baseball. Grimm knows what the youngster's capabilities are and believes he is a fine young prospect. Buhl broke into baseball in 1947 with the Madisonville Club in the Kitty League. He is a big strong lad from Saginaw, Michigan, and possesses a fine fast ball.

LEW BURDETTE—Lew came to the Braves from the San Francisco Club as part of the deal which sent Johnny Sain to the Yankees. He turned out to be an excellent relief man for Charlie Grimm's forces last season. Lew spent several seasons in the Yankee organization before coming to the Tribe. The big right hander makes his home in Nitro, West Virginia.

ERNIE JOHNSON—Ernie was plagued by a sore arm most of last season but finally came into his own over the last month of the campaign and hurled fine ball for the Braves. He enjoyed a banner season with Milwaukee in 1951, winning 15 games during the season and capturing five play-off decisions as the Brewers swept to the Little World Series championship. Originally from Brattleboro, Vermont, Ernie now makes his home with his wife and family in Los Angeles.

GENE CONLEY—Gene not only is the tallest player in the game today, standing 6'8", but is also one of the most promising young pitchers to come up in several years. Last season he won 11 and lost 4 for Milwaukee and was second in strikeouts to teammate Don Liddle. Gene possesses amazing control. He broke in with Hartford in 1951 and won 20 games, nine of which were shutouts. He attended Washington State College where he excelled in baseball and basketball. During the past winter he played basketball with the Boston Celtics. He was named by the Sporting News as the 1951 "Player Of The Year."

MAX SURKONT—Max originally came to the Braves in 1946. However, he had a sore arm at the time and was returned to the St. Louis Cardinals. He came back to the Tribe in 1950, being purchased from the Sacramento Club. The big right hander from Pawtucket, R. I., has pitched fine ball for the Braves. He thrives on competition and likes to work regularly on the hill.

BILLY KLAUS—This left hand hitting third baseman has displayed such fine progress that he started the 1952 season with the Braves. However, Billy was sent back to Milwaukee for further seasoning and played an important role as the Brewers romped to their second straight pennant. He started his career in 1946 and was named to the American Association all star team in 1951. Is regarded as a brilliant fielder.

JOHNNY LOGAN—This youngster played great baseball for the Braves in 1951. Not only did he sparkle at the plate but he topped all rival shortstops in the senior circuit in fielding. Johnny is an excellent all-around athlete and was signed by scout Dewey Griggs. While with Milwaukee in 1951 he set a fielding record for American Assaociation shortstops. Is a great man in making the all-important double play.

EBBA ST. CLAIRE—Ebba was purchased by the Braves from Atlanta at the conclusion of the 1950 season. Is a fine receiver and makes an excellent target for the pitchers. He was one of the few batters to hit better than .300 in the Southern Association in 1950. The big fellow was sidelined for a good part of the 1952 campaign by an asthmatic condition.

GEORGE CROWE—Big George has hit well with every minor league team with which he has played. He broke in with Pawtucket in 1949 and batted .354. The following year he led the Eastern League with a .353 mark. In 1951 he hit .339 for Milwaukee, hit 24 home runs and batted in 119 tallies. He was voted the outstanding rookie in the Association and was named to the all star team. Last season he started out with the Braves but was sent back to Milwaukee which was then in the thick of the pennant race. His hitting helped the Brewers to their second straight pennant. He batted .351 during his stay with Milwaukee. He is a former basketball star and makes his home in New York.

ED MATHEWS—This youthful slugger from Santa Barbara, California, is regarded as one of the coming stars of the game. Last season, his first in the National League, Ed hit 25 home runs to surpass Ralph Kiner's post war rookie mark of 23 set in 1946, became the first rookie in the history of the League to hit three homers in a single game and clouted at least one round tripper in every ball park in the senior circuit. Ed hit some of the longest home runs seen in the National League in many years. He is exceptionally fast for a big fellow and possesses a fine throwing arm. He established himself as a top notch third baseman in 1951.

ANDY PAFKO — The hard hitting outfielder was purchased by the Tribe this past Winter from the Brooklyn Dodgers. Andy's performance in the 1952 World Series was one of the highlights of the Fall Classic. He turned in several spectacular fielding plays to help keep the Dodgers in the running. Andy came up to the major leagues in 1943 with the Chicago Cubs and remained with the Windy City Club until 1951 when he was traded to Brooklyn. Pafko is 31 years old, makes his home in Chicago and is married. In addition to playing any position in the outfield, Andy is a top-notch performer at third base. He boasts a lifetime major league batting average of .290.

PETE WHISENANT—This youngster is highly thought of by Tribal officials. Pete started the 1951 season with the Braves but was farmed out to Milwaukee for additional seasoning. Pete has been in the Braves system since 1947 and had his best year in 1950 when he batted .312 for Denver, drove in 119 runs and belted out 24 home runs and 34 doubles. He is a hustler from the word go and is a very colorful player. He is a fine defensive player and has a good throwing whip. He makes his home in Charlotte, N. C., and served a hitch in Uncle Sam's Navy.
